

"Gene" Black, Michigan's scrapping attorney general, has become the "Peck's bad boy" of the Kim Sigler administration.

The man whom Sigler once insisted was a "must" for his cabinet is now his No. 1 prickly thorn.

Because of the Republican delegation at the national convention stuck to Vandenberg in the second ballot, hoping to elevate Michigan's national statesman from the United States Senate to the White House, Black is now assailing Sigler for Michigan's "most distasteful political position."

Black says he has been a Dewey booster for years. Recently he sounded a call for a "new and resolute Republican candidate for Governor to oppose Governor Sigler."

The Port Huron attorney, who commutes daily between the state capital and his home in Port Huron, has indicated which he would favor for Republican leadership.

Lieut. Governor Eugene C. Keyes, in the meantime, is circulating petitions for both governor and lieutenant governor. He says he won't make up his mind until the July 20 deadline for nominating petitions.

State Treasurer D. Hale Brake of St. Ignace is happy over the Philadelphia outcome. He differed recently with Governor Sigler over the proposed constitutional reforms. Asked about his intentions of running for governor, Brake told a Lansing newspaper reporter, "I have no intention of running. But I wouldn't tie myself up with any flat prediction about being, or not being, a candidate for any office at this time."

To all these rumors Governor Sigler is unimpressed. "The people elect the lieutenant governor," he said, following his firm from Philadelphia. "If they elect Keyes I'll try to get along with him as well as any human being."

"My big problem is that a part of the Administrative board wants to be governor and use every means to advance their own political ambitions."

Black, Keyes and Brake are members of the Administrative board.

Sigler said he thought Black should "spend more time helping to get things done than in popping off to anyone who will listen."

One thing is sure: "Gene" Black doesn't give a whoop what happens to him politically. He finds life at the state capital very distasteful. Following the 1946 election, he sought to get an expense account for room and board at Lansing, maintaining that such was due him under an ancient statute. When Auditor General Muriel Aiken refused to honor the claim, he promptly began the daily trek via state-owned automobile from Port Huron and Lansing. His 1947 legal practice at Port Huron was lucrative.

He feuded with Lansing newspaper editors over release of public information and was spanked publicly by Governor Sigler.

He recently charged that Michigan automobile dealers were "bought" with the state republican command, contributing huge sums of money for the 1948 campaign. All of this has been irritating to the Republican state central committee and to Governor Sigler. It is quite unorthodox for the attorney general of a reform administration to hint boldly of flagging in high places. Black has done just that.

Governor Sigler told Associated Press managing editors at Higgins Lake that he refuses "to bring himself down" to the level of his feuding colleague, Mr. Black.

"Mr. Black is a nice fellow personally," said Sigler. "But he has a peculiar complex. He has swung in many directions."

"I do not feel the same way Black does." Should I criticize him publicly?

Whether Sigler does or does not, "Gene" Black is very much in the news.

Air Service Adds New Plane

The Grayling Air service has added a new plane to their force of training ships. The new ship is a four place Bellanca low wing monoplane that will be used for charter flying.

The plane is powered by a 150 horsepower, 6 cylinder engine and has a cruising speed of 135 miles per hour, with a top speed of 160. Other features of the plane are retractable landing gear, automatic changeable propeller and a 500 mile non-stop flight range.

The plane is easily distinguished by its 3 tailed appearance which were built into the ship for added stability. The fabric and plywood plane will handle four people, a full load of gas and oil and 100 pounds of baggage.

Clayton McDowell of the Grayling Flying service said the plane, passengers could be delivered in Detroit in one and a half hours, in Grand Rapids in an hour and in Saginaw in 45 minutes. With the added speed of the plane, charter rates have been shaved to a comparable rate with scheduled airlines, he added.

State Offers Higgins Lake Frontage

The conservation department's special auction of more than a thousand feet of frontage on Higgins Lake will be held in the Court House in Roscommon, Monday, July 12, at 2 P. M.

The department is offering 18 parcels at this special sale—nine parcels each with 75 feet frontage, seven lots with 50 foot frontage, one with 25 foot frontage, and one "back" parcel. All are relatively deep. The lots lie along the west shore of the lake, in Michigan Central Park subdivision and in Michigan Central Park third addition.

Appraisal prices range from $400 to $1,500, but intense interest in the auction indicates sale prices will be considerably higher. All sales are for cash.

A representative of the department's training school on the north shore of Higgins Lake, July 9, 10 and 11 to locate the frontage properties for prospective bidders who wish to inspect them. If the Court House proves too small to accommodate the crowd, the auction will be adjourned to some larger building there.

Drivers' Disregard For Traffic Signals Ups Staggering Annual Death Toll

By J. Anthony Carrothers
Traffic Engineer, National Conservation Bureau

This is the sixth of a series of 10 articles on street and highway safety, written by nationally recognized accident prevention specialists and published by this newspaper in the interests of greater traffic safety.

Only a fleeing criminal is likely to be reckless enough to disregard a highway patrolman's howling siren or a traffic policeman's whistle. Yet an appalling large number of otherwise law-abiding motorists habitually drive through red lights, exceed posted speed limits and disobey other traffic control devices whenever they think they can get away with it.

About 24 per cent of all fatal accidents happen at intersections, another 12 per cent on curves. More than half of the drivers killed in grade-crossing accidents last year were disregarding warning signs and signals placed there to protect them.

The functions of traffic control devices are identical with those of enforcement officers—to regulate, warn and guide traffic—except that they cannot make arrests. Control devices can be very effective in reducing accidents, provided they are properly placed, properly designed—and properly obeyed.

Traffic control devices which regulate traffic are the strongest aids of authorities in their efforts to reduce accidents and increase the safety and convenience of drivers and pedestrians alike. The stop sign, the traffic light, the parking sign, the "no turn" sign and the speed limit sign are all regulatory devices. Violators of the directions given by these devices are punishable by fine or punishment; they may also be punished far more terribly by injury or death.

Devices that warn motorists are designed to call attention to a special hazard or condition where extra caution and alertness is necessary. Devices that have this warning function include the flashing yellow traffic light, the curve sign, the crosswalk sign, the painted center line of no-passing zones, and pavement messages in advance of points of hazard.

Devices that guide motorists include "destination" signs for motorists traveling between cities, signs giving specific directions for vehicles in complex intersections, and lane and turn-control pavement markings.

Air Force To Number Over 65

Plan Several Public Participating Events

Grayling will be the scene early in August for the most extensive troop movement and mobilization ever conducted by the Michigan National Guard as army and air units each undertake 15 days of field training, according to Brig. General George C. Moran, the Adjutant General of Michigan.

Air National Guard units will move from their home bases at Detroit-Wayne-Major Airport at Romulus and the Kallaghs Field Airport at Battle Creek on August 1, taking some 65 aircraft to their field training base at the Grayling Airport. Among the 14 air units participating in this first field training encampment of the air National Guard will be the 107th Bomb Squadron and the 171st and 172nd Fighter Squadrons and attached units. Personnel is expected to exceed 800 officers and men. The air units will be under the command of Lt. Colonel Donald W. Armstrong, commanding officer, Headquarters, 14th Fighter Group.

On Saturday, August 7, the main body of army units will move into Camp Grayling at the Hanson Military Reservation on the shores of Lake Michigan for their second post-war encampment. It is expected that close to 7,500 officers and men will participate in this largest concentration of troops ever attempted at this historical military reservation.

Emphasis upon a high state of training and proficiency with individual weapons will keynote the 1948 field training program of the 5th Infantry Division, according to Major General Ralph A. Lovell, commanding general. Highlight of the training period as far as the general public is concerned will occur the week end of August 14-15. On Saturday afternoon the 48th Division will parade its entire personnel and equipment for review by Governor Kim Sigler and the commanding general. Formations of the air National Guard will also participate in this review. It will mark the mobilization of Guard personnel for such an event at Camp Grayling.

The annual reception in honor of the 48th Division is scheduled to be held at the Camp Grayling Officers Club, Saturday evening, August 14. On Sunday morning traditional memorial services will be held on the slopes of Cedar Hill in honor of the men of the Michigan National Guard who have given their lives in the service of their country. It is expected that Governor Sigler will give the memorial service address.

A formal review of the air National Guard personnel is scheduled for Sunday afternoon, August 8, at the Grayling Airport. A general "open-house" will prevail that afternoon to which the public is invited for an inspection of the National Guard equipment and personnel. Flying demonstrations will be staged by bomber and fighter pilots in their P-51 pursuit ships and A-26 attack bombers.

Air crews will undertake a full flying schedule, including instrument flying, aerial gunnery, dive bombing, night fighter tactics and techniques and bombing missions. Approximately 100 pyramidal tents will be set up at the Grayling air base for housing personnel. Joint air maneuvers are planned with other units of the wing from Illinois.

National Guard artillery units are scheduled to operate from their firing ranges near Frederic starting Monday, August 16. All army troops will be in the field for an overnight bivouac August 17 and 18. Specialist from Fifth Army Headquarters are scheduled to stage a demonstration of the recoilless rifle, flame thrower and other weapons Thursday afternoon, August 12.

Michigan State Medical Society Reveals Plans For Recruitment Of Medical Associates

"The Michigan State Medical Society has started a program to interest young people in taking up careers in those fields allied with health and medical care," announced R. H. Pino, M.D., Detroit, Chairman of the Commission on Health Care which is in charge of the program.

It is estimated that Medical Associates in the United States are in demand to the number of two million above the present supply, and that thousands of these positions are open in Michigan at the present time.

The all-inclusive name "Medical Associates" is used to designate those professions which include among others such specialties as nursing, dietetics, medical art, hospital administration, vocational guidance, and medical technology. There are at least thirty different divisions in the field of Medical Associates which require periods of training ranging from two years of high-school to four or more years of college.

"The need for additional workers in these vocations is very acute," said Dr. Pino. "By encouraging the recruitment of young people into the fields of health and medical care more people will be able to take advantage of the benefits of modern medical knowledge and skill."

A survey is now being carried on in Michigan to determine the exact need in each of these fields. When the final results of this survey have been compiled accurate information will be available as to the demand for, and opportunities offered, in each of the categories.

A brochure on Medical Associates developed by the Michigan State Medical Society will be published by September, and distributed to high-school, college, and university students, advisors, and administrators.

"The brochure will contain interesting material on each of the professions including such information as where the student may write for further details on the vocation in which he or she is interested, the number of years training required, whether the field seems more attractive to men or women, some indication of the approximate salary which may be expected upon qualification, etc., Dr. Pino said.

Copies of this booklet may be obtained by writing to the Commission on Health Care, Michigan State Medical Society, 2020 Olds Tower, Lansing, Michigan.

Following is a list of the divisions of Medical Associates:

ILL FROM MENTAL QUIRKS Scientists say ulcers, high blood pressure, asthma, paltry and other chronic ills may be caused by personality problems. Read the revealing story "Mental Quirks Can Make Us Ill," in The American Weekly with this Sunday's (July 11) issue of The Detroit Sunday Times.

The Naval Air Transport Service flew more than 320,000 passengers a total of almost 500,000,000 passenger miles during 1947 with no passenger fatalities.

From where I sit... by Joe Marsh

Will's Hospitality Isn't "Cracked"!

Ever since January, Will Dudley planned to give his living room that "new look"—planned to carefully refinish the woodwork and replaster the walls.

Every time Will got out the putty to start filling in the cracks, a neighbor stopped by to pass the time of day—and first thing you knew, there was a group of us helping Will do the job up right. After Will called a halt to the evening's work, we'd sit around the fire enjoying a friendly argument and a sparkling glass of mellow beer.

So Will's living room doesn't look like it did a year ago—but it's by far the most "livable" living room I know: A place you can always drop in for good talk, good beer, and a warm welcome.

From where I sit, so long as Will puts that atmosphere of hospitality and good fellowship ahead of everything else, we'll all be happy to help Will change the looks of his living room any time he wants.

"Backward America" - Bunk!

All the proponents of socialism, communism and the other "have-you-isms" argue that their systems offer the "common man" greater security and material benefits. As Al Smith used to say, let's look at the record.

England has gone in for socialism in a big way. And what has happened? Once a great coal exporting nation, she can now hardly produce enough for her own needs. Her electric power industry has gone downhill and rates are higher than under private ownership. Her whole socialized economy is as shaky as a tree in a storm.

Russia, of course, has gone whole hog in its version of a "people's government," to own or control all productive activity, and only a miserable minimum of consumer goods is produced. Her retail stores—all of which belong to the state—are stocked with only a few necessities and even these are strictly rationed. Prices, measured by average earning power, are far higher than in this country.

"Backward America," on the other hand, still clings to representative government and a capitalistic economy. The "tragic" results of this are seen on every hand—the most efficient industries on earth, the highest standards of living in the world in spite of inflation, more leisure and opportunity for all, retail stores groaning with every kind of commodity, and a competitive system which has to please the people or go out of business—no "take it or leave it" system.

The socialists have a sad story. It just doesn't make sense. And yet they are working here to have government monopolies supplant private enterprise. Will we fall for it?

SHEER TRAVEL MAGIC

THIS is the Buick America's car buyers are buzzing about. This is the one with travel-magic flowing all through it.

This is the ROADMASTER with Dynaflo Drive*—where Main Street's dense traffic, the inviting open road and the long, stretching hills are bossed with equal ease by a toe-touch.

What's Different About DYNAFLO DRIVE?

To an efficient new pump (left above), Buick engineers have added a true turbine (right) and an ingenious new supercharging assembly (in hand) which produces a torque-boosting action in starting and accelerating. The result is the first device on any American passenger car which employs liquid to fill the function of both the clutch and the usual low, second and high gears. The clutch pedal is eliminated and a simple control gives you manual selection of power ranges and direction.

*Optional at extra cost on Roadmaster models only.

Here you let your left foot idle comfortably wherever you wish—there's no clutch pedal to push, ever.

Here your mind's free completely of remembering when to shift—no gears ever shift anywhere in the car.

Here, you glide over ground and grades in swift and utter smoothness as constant and unbroken as Niagara's flow.

For here you have the only passenger car in America where liquid replaces both the usual clutch and the low-second-high gear sequence of conventional transmissions.

Here you sit in blissful ease while the power plant itself meets and masters the thousand and one situations that come up in travel.

Gentle grades, steep hills, long straightaways, stop streets—once your lever's set, you simply step on the gas—and take them all in liquid-smooth luxury!

Does all this sound fabulous? It is.

So fabulous that folks are signing up in droves for the '48 fashion plate with this new-wonder drive.

So to take command of this traveler-touched-with-magic, come see us quickly and get your order in.

We'll take it in sequence whether or not you have a car to trade.

SHORT STORY

In The Family

By ONA FREEMAN
LATHROP

THE long black limousine with a uniformed chauffeur at the wheel came gliding slowly down the bumpy brick street and rolled to a stop in front of the little white house. No one got out.

From her bedroom Ann Marie heard the soft purr of the motor and peeked out through the living room. Yes, it was Aunt Sarah, with Jennings in front beside the chauffeur. She'd been dreading this moment. She glanced hastily around. Let them come. Everything was ready. Tommy was playing in the back yard. Their own little car was in the drive. They would know she was home. Then why didn't they come in?

Finally the car moved away silently, luxuriously. Like a sleek cat that had stalked its prey. Ann Marie heaved a sigh of relief, yet she was angry too. The very nerve! She went about getting dinner in a cold, white fury. So that was her method!

At dinner she told Tom. "Your Aunt Sarah was here today."

"Well, fine! I knew she'd unbend sooner or later and call," he chuckled.

"Oh, she didn't come in. She just drew up her chariot in front and stared agape at our humble abode. Probably seeing how the 'other half' lives."

"Evidently she still can't stand the idea that you married beneath you. Some day I'll show that grand dame on her pinnacle just how far beneath you you really did marry. If I lose my temper sufficiently," she vowed.

"What'll you do, Mommy?" Tommy wanted to know, his eyes as big as saucers, his mouth stuffed full.

"What's marryin' beneath you?" he demanded. They laughed.

"Oh, Daddy was upstairs and I was in the basement," Ann Marie told him jokingly.

But the thought rankled the next day as Ann Marie went about her work. Had Tom stepped down to her level, or had she come up to his, or was there any difference at all? And then that afternoon the big limousine drew up to the curb again. This was too much! She would not go out and beg her to come in. Let them sit and stare. Only this time Tommy was playing in the front yard.

"Are you Tommy Parkhurst, little boy?" Aunt Sarah asked.

Tommy went right on tinkering with his tricycle. "Sure. Are you Aunt Sarah Parkhurst?"

"Why, yes. How did you know?" Her dignified expression almost cracked into the semblance of a smile under her black bonnet.

"Oh, I've heard my folks talk about you and your big car."

"Well! And what did they say?"

"Oh, nuthin', only Mommy said you never liked it 'cause she was in the basement and Daddy upstairs when they got married and the preacher had to yell. Could you hear him clear out to your house?"

"No, I couldn't," Aunt Sarah answered, a puzzled expression on her face.

"Maybe you were up on your pinnacle that Mommy says you sit on," he went on nonchalantly. "Do you like it up there on your pinnacle? Ain't it lonesome up there all alone?"

Aunt Sarah was wiping off either a tear or a smile, but she called, "Come here, Tommy. You are very much like your Daddy used to be, did you know that? And I loved your Daddy very much."

Aunt Sarah got out of the car and took Tommy in her arms. Then she turned to Ann. "My dear, you don't know how I've longed to come in but I supposed you wouldn't care to have me. I've had James drive past night after night, but I couldn't get up the courage to stop. If you only knew how lonely I've been for Tom. You see, I used to live in a little white house very much like this before I married Tom's uncle. I wasn't always a Parkhurst, you know. And I know exactly how you feel about being in the family. I'd love to come in."
